The University of Kansas
Emily Taylor Center for Women and Gender Equity Graduate Intern

The Emily Taylor Center for Women and Gender Equity (ETC for brevity) provides leadership and advocacy in promoting gender equity and challenging gender-related barriers which impede full access, inclusion, and success. Approaching our work from a social justice lens, we raise awareness of critical issues, provide opportunities to translate awareness into action, and empower individuals to advocate for themselves and others. The ETC reports to the Office for Diversity and Equity and is involved in supporting overarching diversity initiatives, goals and philosophy.

The ETC team includes three full-time professionals and one half-time Graduate Intern position. This Graduate Intern assists the ETC Director, Assistant Director, and Program Coordinator in overseeing and coordinating educational programming and volunteer management for the Center. This includes involvement in conceptualizing and planning events, organizing and coordinating details, assisting in providing guidance, information, support and referrals on gender-related issues to students, staff, faculty, and university departments, assisting in facilitating workshops/discussions on topics related to gender, preparing promotional materials, and coordination of ETC volunteers. Some evenings and weekends may be required.

Additional opportunities for involvement include: student group advising, Greek Life collaboration, committee involvement, leadership programming and professional development experiences.

Responsibilities:

1. Assist in the planning and coordination of educational programs, including contacting speakers, arranging for space, collaborating with campus groups, preparing promotional materials, and overseeing evaluation mechanisms;
2. Coordinate and build relationships with ETC volunteers to ensure volunteers are having a meaningful experience;
3. Represent the ETC at campus events and programs;
4. Assist in the promotion of ETC programs and services by preparing written materials, utilizing social media venues and developing creative approaches.
5. Assist the ETC Staff in determining current gender-related interests, needs, and campus concerns in order to create programs and services to meet those needs;
6. Assist in providing guidance, information, support and referrals on gender-related issues to students, staff, faculty, and university departments;
7. Assist in facilitating workshops/discussions on topics related to women and gender that address ETC goals;
8. Assist with Diversity and Equity initiatives when requested;
9. Assume administrative responsibilities as needed.

Required Qualifications:

1. Enrollment as a KU graduate student in good academic standing in the Higher Education Program for the 2014 – 2015 academic year;
2. Strong interpersonal and written skills;
3. Demonstrated ability to establish and maintain positive working relationships with members of the campus community (students, administrators and faculty);
4. Strong organizational and follow-through skills;
5. Ability to present information to groups.

Preferred Qualifications:
1. Knowledge of and experience in working with gender-related issues in higher education;
2. Training or experience in facilitating workshops and/or discussions with small and large groups;
3. Experience in coordinating programs and providing assistance on gender-related issues to college students;
4. Volunteer management experience;
5. Experience with PC programs, including maintaining websites, Facebook, Instagram, and Twitter accounts.

Compensation:
$450.00 per biweekly pay period, 20 hours per week (50% appointment).

Appointment Period: August, 2017 through May, 2018

Application Deadline: Preferred, (January 2017). Applicants can apply on-line at https://jobs.ku.edu. Complete applications will include an on-line application, cover letter, resume and the names of three references.
